Like i have explained in my last email, i am now in the United Kingdom and the earliest i will be back to the US will be this summer, so we will make the deal via Rent.com(an eBay company) for protection, because i cannot be there in person to show you the apt. and because i am out of the country and the apartment has furniture and appliances worth over 30,000$ to see the apt you will have to send a safety deposit, i will not receive this deposit, the payment details will be unavailable to me, i will get the payment only if you decide to rent the apartment, if you do not rent the apartment you will get the money back the same day.

Rent.com will also make sure you can view and inspect the apt before i get any money.

Please confirm the details:

Name:
Address:
City:
Zip:

I will start the transaction and you will receive the instructions and the invoice.

To see the apt you will have to send them a safety deposit, after that they will mail you the rental agreement and the property key so you can inspect it.

If you do not want to rent the apartment you will receive the money back the same day and you will have to return the agreement and the key.

If you want to rent the apartment the safety deposit will be given to me and you will receive this money when you do not want to rent the apartment anymore, if everything in the apartment has not been damaged.

Waiting your reply asap.
Thank you!
Gary Barts.

I'm sorry, but you did not include a name. Who are you? I like to know who I am dealing with.
